

Career Heroes

Career Heroes is a set of career education tools designed around the theme of popular trading card games. Consisting of a workbook, a teacher's guide, and trading cards, the Career Heroes tool set helps teachers introduce the concept of career planning and the basics of using career information. Content is divided into the six Holland Code types and introduces the tasks, tools, and training for each career hero. It creates a sense of value for all careers, with each occupation designated as a superhero with special super powers (skills) and mental powers (knowledge). The Career Heroes trading cards provide a fun, hands-on way to connect the concepts of interests and skills to specific types of work.

Jacob and Emily Skip School

This publication introduces the concept of career clusters by telling the story of a set of twins who spend the day learning about careers. The characters may be fictional, but the interviews come from real-life professionals in the featured occupations. Each occupation represents one of the 16 career clusters, and features basic career information like wages, hours, travel, and educational requirements. Students also get an overview of each cluster and its associated pathways. The accompanying teacher's guide provides supplemental activities that reinforce the lessons of the book.
